

Up Jack Nose in Van Of Red Jim, Choice, At Charles Town

CHARLES TOWN, W. VA., Dec. 2.—Mrs. Sam Gilman's Up Jack, at $680, won the fourth race here today, looked upon as the best offering of the eight events.

G. C. Smith's Red Jim, favorite with the crowd of 5,000, was not well ridden to be second. Red Jim, carrying the bulk of the play, took an eight-length lead in the opening half-mile, but started tiring and lost the verdict by a slim nose.

Augie Gibson's In Fun raced to third money.

Horses occupying barn 3, which was burned this morning, were rounded up by noon. However, some of them, including Dividend, property of Mrs. P. E. Souers of Washington, were suffering from cuts and bruises from encountering fast-moving automobiles and other vehicles converging on the fire.

He said he had not been advised whether "Buddy" Young, Illinois halfback, had received approval.

The three "approved" athletes will comprise the nucleus of a group to which other names may be added at a meeting in New York next week, Reid said.

Conway III, Ring Show Tomorrow Night at Turner's Canceled

The Colon Chaney-Clint Conway heavyweight ten-round, booked for tomorrow night at the Turner Arena, was canceled last night because of the latter's illness at his Newark home.

His manager, Lew Diamond, notified Joe Turner and Gene Menendez yesterday afternoon that Conway would be unable to go through with the contest, on advice of his physician.

Instead of attempting to sign a last-minute sub to face Chaney, Turner and Menendez decided to call off the show outright.

They announced that the next set of bouts at the arena will be booked for Monday night, December 18, and they expect to have the feature bout for this card ready for announcement within a few days.

65,000 Watch Tilden Take Chicago Title

The victory was the first for the public schools in four years.

The 65,000 fans contributed approximately $120,000 to the city's servicemen's centers.

Play After Dark Paid Too Well This Year To Be Dropped

By the Associated Press. Night baseball, stepped up considerably in the big leagues last season, will undergo a critical review at the joint meeting of the major circuits in New York December 13, but chances are the park lights won't go out when the lights go on again all over the world.

A check of American League figures showed that the five clubs with lights—Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Washington and Philadelphia—did all right in after-sundown play.

Topped by Washington, whose Clark Griffith would go all out for night baseball, the American League played 133 nocturnal tilts before 1,328,310 fans. That constitutes a pretty good chunk of the junior circuit's near-record 1944 attendance of 4,995,121.

Average Night Gate 9,987. In 1943 the league played 91 night games before 897,704. Last July, at the All-Star game in Pittsburgh, the club owners were given carte blanche—as a wartime measure—to schedule as many night games as they desired.

As a result, Washington wound up playing 44 night games, followed by Philadelphia with 33, Chicago with 23, Philadelphia with 17 and Cleveland with 16.

Comparison in attendance between 1943 and last season:

Team	1944	1943
Washington	44	33
St. Louis	33	23
Philadelphia	23	17
Cleveland	16	16

For the 133-game total, which includes five war relief games, average attendance at night was 9,987. This compares with an average of 7,591 at 483 day games, including three war relief games.

Major's Can't Ignore Crowds. A difference of almost 2,400 average attendance in favor of night baseball may make the major league moguls think twice before they take up the old chant that night play can ruin major league baseball.

Certainly the 1944 American League figures bore out the contention that night play was needed to accommodate war workers. When peace comes, that argument will disappear, but the wartime precedent may make it difficult for owners to return to strictly a sunshine diet.

Minors to Vote on 13 Changes In Baseball Laws This Week

By the Associated Press.

Minor league baseball may demand a voice in naming a successor to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis at its 43d annual convention opening in Buffalo Wednesday, but a policy of "watching and waiting" upon major league action is generally expected.

Only 13 amendments to the major-minor agreement will be considered by the National Association according to President William G. Bramham, and all have been overshadowed by the unexpected death of Landis, which may result in a complete revamping of the game's legal code.

Both the major agreement, which established the office Landis held, and the powers he wielded, and the major-minor agreement, by which the lower-classification circuits recognized the commissioner, are due to undergo extensive renovations before they come up for renewal January 12, 1946.

Vote on Ruler Wanted.

In the intervening year many committee meetings will consider proposals expected to limit the power of a new commissioner, thus shelving any immediate action. When the big leagues meet in New York December 11-12 they probably will vote to continue temporarily under the rule of the advisory committee composed of Presidents Ford Frick of the National, Will Harridge of the American and Landis' secretary, Leslie O'Connor.

As matters stand now, the major league select a commissioner by a majority vote and pay his salary. Some influential minor leaguers would like a vote or removal of the "conduct detrimental to baseball" clause by the majors.

Gulfstream Gate, Betting Drop On Second Day; Permane Hurt

By the Associated Press.

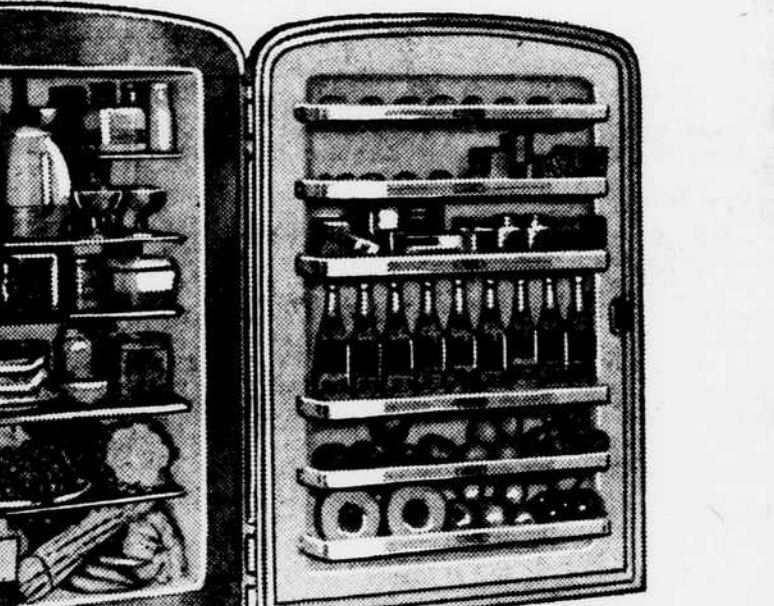

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2.—Attendance and parimutuel play almost were halved exactly at Gulfstream Park today in comparison with figures set at yesterday's opening.

Official attendance was announced as 5,036 as compared with some 10,500 yesterday. Parimutuel wagering reached $280,135 as against the $429,209 which fed the betting machines on opening day.

Not scheduled in the celebration of "Florida Day" at the track was a spill in the first race in which Bobby Permane, high ranking jockey, suffered a slight fracture of the left shoulder.

The accident will keep Permane, second leading jockey in winners for 1944, idle for about three weeks.

D. C. Pin Aces Active At Arcadia and in Baltimore Today

Cecil Blue, pilot of the Arcadia bowling plant, will be host to the city's many week-end tournament rollers this afternoon and tonight in a handicap event which will be worth $100 to the winner.

While all classes of pinspillers will fire in the five-game Arcadia affair, a galaxy of the Capital's top-flight men and women pinspillers will see action in two Baltimore tournaments.

Some 20 fair District rollers will be seeking their first major victory of the season in the first annual Pat Scheffer event at the Orioles' Lucky Strike while a big squad of men sharpshooters will compete in Lou Pohl's second annual open at Baltimore's South Brooklyn alleys. More than 100, including the Orioles' finest, are expected to shoot it out for the $150 top prize.

Washington aces have won all four major tournaments staged so far this season in Baltimore, quite a reversal from last season when they failed to land first in a single money event. Karl Gochenour, the Brookland manager, after winning the Pop Wolfe Memorial here, broke the ice in the Oriole City by landing the Plaza tournament. Then Ed Blakeney triumphed in the Recreation Inaugural. Tony Santini was the victor in the more recent Robinson-McGraw event.

On the other hand Oriole rollers have won two of the four tournaments held here. Art Felter backed the Howard Campbell and young Dick Mattheis copped the Santini.

Next Saturday night at 7:45 the Washington City Duckpin Association will hold its annual meeting and election of officers in the Victory Room of the Ambassador Hotel.

Heurich Basket Loop Opening With Galaxy Of Stars on Teams

Officials selecting the most valuable player in the Heurich Basket Ball League this season will have a tough time of it, with so many potential winners in the teams' line-ups. Their job will begin tonight when the league opens its 1944-45 campaign with a triple-header starting at 8.

Among outstanding prospects for the award are St. (Pop) Wagman, last year's winner who now performs for Ferruso, Bill Duryee of the Office of Strategic Services and Tom Ross, 6-foot 7-inch center for Senate Beer.

Duryee, all-city basketball, football and baseball player while at Western High School a decade ago and sprint champion besides, still sets a torrid pace on the floor and his playing causes plenty of worry among the opposition. He'll be directing the OSS against Ross' Senate Beer quintet tonight. In the opener, Ferruso's Cafe tangles with Garvins and the nightclub pits Naval Research against Kavakos.

Tomorrow night, Army Air Force Weather Division opposes Naval Ordnance and Transcontinental Western Airlines take on FBI.

Sheriff on Michigan Team Milan Lazetich, Michigan tackle, is 24 years old, an Army dischargee and ex-deputy sheriff at Anaconda, Mont.
